Dear Charles:

Thank you for supporting the 2009 "Strike for Conservation" fund raiser with a very generous $100.00 donation. 100% of all contribution proceeds will be spent on local and regional conservation and animal wellness.

"Strike for Conservation" supports conservation of habitat in the wild but also supports the new Melvin J. and Claire Levine Animal Care Center at the Palm Beach Zoo. Your contribution will go towards the purchase of needed medical equipment that will help provide the finest animal care in the nation. The new center will also be providing training and education for local universities and high schools for their pre-veterinary and veterinary medicine programs.

Once again, we thank you for your support and hope you share in our excitement in helping these endangered animals. It is due to your generous contributions that many of these animals may survive and be seen in the wild for future generations. Please keep us in mind next year, for the best ever 2010 Strike for Conservation!

Your contribution is tax deductible as the American Association of Zoo Keepers, Inc. is a 501 (c (3) tax exempt organization.

Sincerely yours

Ivan Heit

Dear Charles:

Thank you again for supporting the 2008 "Strike for Conservation" fund raiser with a very generous $400.00 donation. The event was an overwhelming success with 122 participants and net proceeds of over $8,000.00. 100% of all contribution proceeds are divided between the purchase of a piece of medical equipment for the new Salvatore M. Zeitlin Animal Hospital at the Zoo and various conservation sanctuaries and programs throughout the U.S. and the Western Hemisphere.

"Strike for Conservation" supports animal welfare locally and conservation of habitat in the wild. By protecting these unique ecosystems, we not only save the endangered animals but everything living in the animal's habitat from orchids to sloth.

Once again, we thank you for your support and hope you share in our celebration of the success in helping all animals. It is due to your generous contributions that many of these animals may survive and be seen in the wild for future generations. Please keep us in mind next year, for the best ever 2009 Strike for Conservation!

Enclosed is one of our limited edition zoo animal photographs. We hope you will enjoy displaying it.

Dear Charles:

Thank you for supporting the 2007 "Bowling For Rhinos" fund raiser. The American Association of Zoo Keepers (AAZK) has now raised over $2.1 million since 1990. 100% of your generous $300.00 contribution continues to be sent directly to Lewa Wildlife Conservancy (LWC) in Kenya, Ujung Kulon National Park in Java, Indonesia and Bukit Barisan Selatan National Park in Sumatra, Indonesia.

Kenya's black rhino population went from 20,000 in the mid 1970's to a few hundred by 1986. Conservation organizations went to work and today there are over 1,000. LWC has 6 % of the National population of black rhino and 25 % of the world's population of Grevy's zebra. Wildlife thrive in this safe haven and LWC continues to be a model for conservation worldwide.

Ujung Kulon and Bukit Barisan in Indonesia continue to train Rhino Patrol Units (anti-poaching teams) and beef up security. Luckily, these parks were not affected by the Tsunami. It was found that the animals seemed to sense the danger and fled to higher ground. This kind of sense never ceases to amaze us.

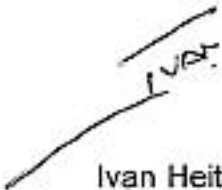

In the 1980's, there were still about 1,000 Sumatran rhinos. By 1995, there were only 300 left. Over the past 8 years, with the RPU's in place, this number has remained stable. The goal now is to curtail poaching and habitat destruction and then allow the populations to rebound to viable size. If we are successful in conserving the rhino's ecosystem, we can at the same time save some of the most biologically important places on earth and greatly improve the odds for countless other species struggling to survive in the wild.

Without safe havens such as Lewa, Ujung Kulon and Bukit Barisan, many of these animals would surely perish. The success of these areas in conservation of wildlife is largely due to your generous support. I hope you will feel proud in knowing that you have helped save wildlife worldwide. Your support truly does make a significant difference.

Your contribution is tax deductible and covered by tax #23-7274856. The American Association of Zoo Keepers, Inc. is a 501 (c) (3) organization.

Thank you again.

Sincerely yours,
